

The Headsman; Or the Abbaye Des Vignerons, Vol. 2 of 2: A Tale (Classic Reprint)

Excerpt from The Headsman; Or the Abbaye Des Vignerons, Vol. 2 of 2: A Tale- Come apace, good Audrey; I will fetchUp your goats, Audrey: and how, Audrey? amI the man yet? Doth my simple features contentYou.As You Like It.While the mummeries related were exhibiting in the great square, Maso, Pippo, Conrad, and the others concerned in the little disturbance connect ed with the affair of the dog, were eating their discontent within the walls of the guard-house. Vevey has several squares, and the various ceremonies of the gods and demigods were now to be repeated in the smaller areas. On one of the latter stands the town-house and prison. The offenders in question had been summarily transferred to the gaol, in obedience to the command of the officer charged with preserving the peace. By an act of grace, however, that properly belonged to the day, as well as to the character of the offence, the prisoners were permitted to occupy a part of the edifice that commanded a view of the square, and consequently were not precluded from all participation in the joyousness of the festivities. This indulgence had been accorded on the condition that the parties should cease their wrangling, and otherwise conduct themselves in a way not to bring scandal on the exhibition in which the pride of every Vevaisan was so deeply enlisted.About the PublisherForgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
